KONFERENZ

Due to the latest directive dealing with carbon capture and storage (CCS) technology for the energy sector, national governments have been obliged to develop an effective approach to integrate this technology into their national policy.

As the carbon emissions trading scheme comes into force in 2013, most energy suppliers aim to develop CCS to minimise their carbon production.

Are you really familiar with the national strategies for developing Carbon Storage Sites?

CCS is heavily criticised as storage capacities in subsoil locations imply a risk potential to the environment. Consequently private and public actors have to coordinate their efforts and open a dialogue which is essential in the evolution of storage sites.

European Seminar

“Carbon Storage – Challenges for Energy Companies and Public Authorities”

26st – 28th October 2009, Berlin, Germany

Your Benefits:

- profit from the experience of CO2 experts involved in legislation processes
- receive the latest information on Carbon legislation in member states
- learn how to explore techniques and selection criteria for storage capacities

- gain expertise in financing instruments and methods for Carbon Storage Sites

Furthermore, you have the unique opportunity to visit the Carbon storage testing site “CO2 Sink” near Berlin!

KONFERENZ

European Seminar:
“Public Private Partnerships for Cities & Regions “

19th – 20th October 2009 Berlin, Germany.

In view of the global economic and financial crisis, Public Private Partnerships (PPP) are increasingly important, as they enable local authorities to maintain services while making financial savings.

Cities, regions and municipalities are put under pressure to deliver better quality services to citizens and industry, not only in transport but also in areas like health and waste management. Due to the lack of financial resources and budgetary burdens PPP are an attractive alternative.

The PPP are not only solution to financial shortages in the public sector. They feature sharing of financial risks between public and private sectors and bring in the private sectors ability to apply innovative solutions. Many of the PPP are very complex contracts, of high value and in some cases for a long period of time.

The following 2-day practical European seminar will focus on solutions in the process of financing, planning, procuring and managing PPP.

Your Benefit:

- You receive practical advice from experts dealing with PPP
- You learn how to improve the implementation of PPP in your city
- You gain confidence in how to minimise the financial risks in local administration
- You have the chance to meet colleagues from all across Europe
- You get best practice report on PPP dealing with health and waste management

Do not miss this opportunity to ask specific questions and get all the answers you require both in open forum session and through personal talks.

NY LITTERATUR

The Office of Evaluation (OE) of IFAD has just published its new Evaluation Manual, which contains the core principles and methodology for undertaking evaluations, including project, thematic, country programme and corporate-level evaluations.

The manual also presents the key processes for designing and conducting project and country programme evaluations, which currently are the type of evaluation most widely undertaken by OE.

The main purpose of the manual is to ensure consistency, rigour and transparency across independent evaluations, and enhance OE's effectiveness and quality of work.

The document, which builds on internationally recognized evaluation practices and criteria, was developed in a participatory manner, which entailed wide-ranging discussions among OE staff and consultants, IFAD Management and staff, as well as selected project directors from all regions.

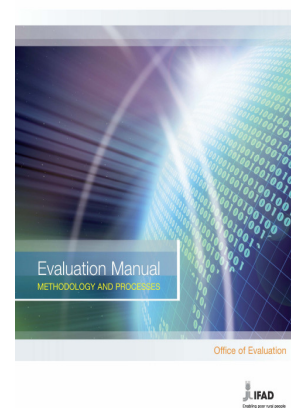

In addition, OE benefited from the insightful comments and guidance of a seven-person international experts panel of senior independent advisers (chaired by Professor Robert Picciotto, former Director General of the World Bank's Independent Evaluation Group).

The Arabic, French and Spanish versions of the manual are under production to facilitate its use in all geographic regions covered by IFAD operations.

The manual is available on the IFAD website, at the following address:

drag og workshops over bogens indhold.

Det siges der om bogen af:

Den nye leder:

Universitetsprofessoren:

"Det er yderst sjældent, at erfarne danske ledere standser op og i bogform fortæller om deres erfaringer og indsigter. Og det er sjældent, at det gøres så omhyggeligt, gennemreflekteret og dybt, som det gøres i denne bog."

Steen Hildebrandt - Professor og Forfatter

Den Tekniske Direktør:

"Hvis du kun har plads til få bøger om ledelse i din kalender, så lad denne være den ene."

Søren Thorup - Formand Væksthushuset for ledelse

Bogen kan købes på www.birmar.dk fra den 19. august 2009.
